

SecureX Connect Pro – intelligent security with Swedish control

SecureX is a modern and flexible alarm system which protects homes, businesses, and properties using smart wireless technology and stable communication. The system is built around a central unit like connects sensors, sirens, and accessories into a unified security network that reacts instantly to events.

With SecureX, you get a scalable system that can be adapted to your needs—from basic intrusion protection to a complete safety solution with fire, water, and personal alarms.

Software and hardware are updated with a Nordic perspective and via Stonehouse Security in Gothenburg, Sweden.

SecureX Connect Pro together with the Stonehouse Smart app provides a complete and future-proof solution where security and smart control work together in one system.

The central unit communicates with sensors and accessories via professional wireless radio technology at 433 MHz and 868 MHz, providing long range, a stable signal, and strong penetration through walls and floors—even in larger properties and more demanding environments.

All monitoring, control, and system management are handled easily through the Stonehouse Smart app, where you receive real-time notifications, remote control, and the ability to create automations that adapt security and functions to your needs. The system is developed with Nordic users in mind and offers broad language support in both the panel and the app.

Both SecureX Connect Pro and Stonehouse Smart are continuously updated online with improvements, new features, and security updates— completely without subscriptions or additional costs.

This means your installation continues to evolve and remains modern, secure, and compatible over time.

Together, SecureX Connect Pro and Stonehouse Smart create a stable, scalable, and future-proof platform that combines professional security with intelligent smart home control in a single solution.

The advantage of Stonehouse Smart – Swedish platform and local reliability

SecureX is controlled and monitored via Stonehouse Smart, developed for simple control and smooth usability. Working with Stonehouse Smart offers several key advantages:

- Swedish company with local support and an understanding of Nordic needs
- Language support tailored for the Nordic region in both the app and compatible systems
- Stable platform for both security and smart home functions
- Ability to manage multiple types of devices within a single app
- Future-proof solution that can be expanded over time

You can integrate, for example:

- o Smart lighting
- o Cameras
- o Thermostats and climate control
- o Door locks and intercom systems
- o Energy and electrical control
- o Sensors for motion, water, gas, and fire

Det ger dig friheten att bygga exakt den lösning du vill ha.

A complete ecosystem — not just an alarm system

SecureX is part of the Stonehouse Smart platform, which means security can be combined with smart home functions such as automation, monitoring, and remote control. You get a unified solution where everything works together.

The result is a secure, modern, and user-friendly security system — with Swedish roots and global technology in one and the same solution.
